Impact of coronavirus on voting in Tennessee

Due to the coronavirus pandemic, a Tennessee voter who is hospitalized, ill or physically disabled and unable to appear at the polling place to vote qualifies to vote absentee by-mail. Included in the category of ill are voters who have an illness, physical disability or other underlying health condition that makes them especially vulnerable to COVID-19, and who, because of that condition, are unable to appear in the polling place

All voters will be allowed to vote in person during early-voting and on Election Day
